

(Laughter.)

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: But you know, that's true. Every big problem and crisis creates an opportunity. And --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: That's very true.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: -- so hopefully the RFP can move forward despite the court case. I think we should be dredging sooner rather than later, in addition to Pennsylvania doing the right thing and, you know, catching up with us as far as their land use practices.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well thank you very much.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: And thank you for, I don't know how you turned that meeting of the Commission from -- we were launching some pretty heavy attacks down here at the last Board of Public Works meeting. But somehow, someone calmed everyone down. And it looked like it was a success.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well we had some, we had some pretty direct conversations in a private meeting. And Pennsylvania I think agreed that they need to redouble their efforts and, you know, we're making some progress. We didn't need to beat them up at the public hearing. You can disagree without being disagreeable and I think we're going to make some real progress with Pennsylvania and New York and the EPA and with Exelon and it's been an issue that I've been focused on for five years. And I can tell you we're making progress. And I want to thank Secretary Grumbles for his leadership. You know, the Bay is the cleanest it has been ever, since they have been recording these things, for 33 years. We have dolphins swimming in the Bay for the first time. We have 100,000 acres of Bay grasses coming back. You know, we invested $4 billion into Chesapeake Bay restoration programs in four years, which is twice as much as the previous administration did in eight years. And we're very happy with our progress. But this is the one thing, the next thing that we really have to go after and it was one of the main topics of my campaign four years ago that we were going to try to do it. We have an RFP about to go out and we're going to make other states do their fair share. Because trust me, we've been doing more than our fair share. And we're going to get the rest of them on board. Because it's their trash and debris that's pouring, flooding over that dam and into the Bay. So thank you for the comments.

Any other questions on the Secretary's Agenda?

SECRETARY MCDONALD: Let me just note that the Department of Agriculture is represented today on Item 1. So she did appear and she is here.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Okay.

SECRETARY MCDONALD: Thank you. Thank you very much for being here.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: I have one question on Item -- no, this is a different item.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you. He was just praising you and the folks at Agriculture and at MDE for their work.

MS. SALISBURY: Thank you so much. I will let them know that. Thank you.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Item A3, please.

SECRETARY MCDONALD: A3 is, and Mr. James is here from the Human Services Department. This is an emergency contract that he is reporting for a placement of two youth in a treatment center.

MR. JAMES: Good morning. I'm Greg James, Deputy Secretary for Operations for the Department of Human Services, and I'm joined today by Randi Walters, who is our new Deputy Secretary for Programs; as well as Tennille Thomas, who is our Chief of Staff of the Social Services Administration.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you, Mr. James.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Yes. Thank you, Mr. James, for working with everybody to reduce the number of out-of-state placements. This is a contract to send, unfortunately in my opinion, two additional Maryland youth to a group out in Colorado called Southern Peaks. And I do want to express my gratitude to you and the administration, because I think you are making a lot of progress in getting these out-of-state placements returned to Maryland. And that's good. But I did have a question about the research that you do before sending kids, for example, to Colorado to this particular facility. My staff noted in some, a Google search that they had, in November 2016 to May 2017 police received 72 reports of juveniles running away from this particular facility. I think they said they were elopements, eloping, they were eloping from the facility. Well, I'm not sure that my staff, I know my staff communicated this to your folks and I'm not sure they were even aware of it. And so I guess I wanted to just hear your comments on how you are ensuring the safety and well-being of these youth.

MR. JAMES: Certainly, Mr. Comptroller. With regard to the specific news article, when we researched -- so I am fairly certain that we had seen that article prior to making the initial placements at Southern Peaks. But when we researched to respond to the question, we couldn't find any affirmative evidence in our files. We couldn't find a copy of the article to say that we had seen it previously. And so we were not going to tell you that we had seen it if we couldn't --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Sure.

MR. JAMES: -- demonstrate with evidence that it was there. With regard to the substance of that report, yes, it is very concerning when you have that number of elopements. But I would point out this is a problem that we experience with this population in particular, with this nature of placements. It's a problem that we have with programs in Maryland. It's a problem that programs all across the country have, which is these youth who have been through these particularly traumatic experiences frequently want to leave campus, want to leave the property of the program. And the nature of these programs, the staff are prohibited from physically restraining the youth from walking off campus. And there is no fences. There's, these are not prisons. These are not detainment facilities. These are treatment facilities. And so if a youth wants to walk off the grounds, then they can do that. But the response by this program to that is exactly what we would want, which is they immediately contact the local law enforcement so that they can help them. Once they are off grounds, they are considered at risk. So the local law enforcement will assist them in bringing the youth back to the campus. The staff will physically follow the youth when they walk off campus so that they keep them in sight so that it's not as if these children are simply running away and are gone into the night. It's very much an appropriate process of engaging local law enforcement to, and the entire community, to support the mission of the program. So that's been the approach here.

Now I would also note that since that report this program has put into place a number of additional measures to help support that. They have paid for additional off duty local sheriff's office and law enforcement personnel to assist them when children elope. They have increased their staffing on campus to reduce the number of elopements. They have changed their staffing patterns and their program patterns to especially deal with the transition times and the periods of time in the day, you know, lunchtimes and transition between programs, lights out. Those are the times when we know that children are most likely to try and elope. And so they have adjusted their program to deal with that. They have also worked out a notification system so that the local community has a notice when a child leaves campus and can assist and also has notice so that they can take appropriate measures to protect themselves, which is exactly the type of community engagement that we'd like.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Okay so --

MR. JAMES: Since, and since --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: No, I understand --

MR. JAMES: Yes, sir.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: -- that's fine. Maybe you could just update me on the most current figures for how many Maryland youth are still in out-of-state treatment facilities and what's the timeline for getting them to come back to the State? Because I assume you would like to have these two kids not in Colorado but here in Maryland.

MR. JAMES: Sir --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Where we can --

MR. JAMES: Certainly. One of, and one of those youth that was at Southern Peaks has since been reunified with her mother in California. So we're down to one youth at Southern Peaks as of today. As of today, we have 16 DHS placed youth out of state. There's one co-committed youth between

Department of Human Services and Juvenile Services who is out of state. Of those, we know of at least five that are on track to be returned to Maryland within the next 180 days.

Now I want to be very forthright with the Board. We also have five youth that right now we may be looking at out-of-state placement for. We are doing everything in our power to try and keep them in the State of Maryland. But we also need to secure an appropriate placement for them for their safety and security and well-being. And that's what we're working towards with those. Our goal has been and continues to be to try and get that number below ten in terms of youth, the number of youth who are out of state. Nine fall into those exception categories that we've talked about in the past. And we have an RFP Statement of Need that's been in process to stand up some additional programs in Maryland, including programs that will address some of the youth that are being placed out of state, including at Southern Peaks. We are just completing that evaluation for that procurement and expect that to be done, the evaluation to be done, by the end of this month.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Thank you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you, Mr. James --

MR. JAMES: Thank you.

MR. JAMES: Thank you. And if I may take a moment of the Board's time, I have constantly said that this is a team effort. I really want to recognize Tennille Thomas, who has done incredible work with this population. She knows every one of these kids, has reviewed every one of their cases, and knows all the details about them and helps us make all this progress. And so she does not receive recognition --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well thank you. That's, we appreciate both of you.

(Applause.)

MR. JAMES: Thank you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you. Are there any other questions on the Secretary's Agenda?

TREASURER KOPP: I have a question. It's on A4, 5, and 6, but it's actually for Secretary Churchill although it's Public Safety and Health. Chillers. An example of a problem, chillers way beyond their life, can't be patched up any longer, go wrong, leak, impact everything else, cost a great deal more money than they would have if they had been replaced earlier, especially with energy efficient equipment. This is exactly the sort of thing that we have been talking about repeatedly in the past. Not, I don't know if this is a DGS project at all. But it's happening all across State government. What are we doing to in a cost effective way, to bring the different departments together and help them realize that if we had this sort of plan that you had been talking about before of mapping out where all of these expensive pieces of equipment are that are about to go bad and that would have been saving us money had we replaced them a decade earlier, where are we?

MR. CHURCHILL: Thank you for the question, Madam Treasurer. And as we have indicated before, at General Services we are putting together a plan and are moving on an initiative to --

TREASURER KOPP: But this is another example of something that's not in General Services.

MR. CHURCHILL: This is. And since our, we had a conversation about that --

TREASURER KOPP: Right.

MR. CHURCHILL: -- about a month or so ago. And we've been in contact with other agencies that have facilities and are trying to understand the mechanisms that they have in place that may be similar to our own in terms of understanding their facility needs. So we are in conversation with other agencies and we're going to continue to do that in terms of --

TREASURER KOPP: But what can we, I mean, first of all it's the cost of the equipment. Secondly, it's the benefit foregone, both in terms of cost and the impact on the environment and operating programs. And there's no good aspect of something like this happening, unless it's a lessons learned.

MR. CHURCHILL: That is correct.

TREASURER KOPP: Somehow we turn it into a lessons learned.

MR. CHURCHILL: And the lessons learned at the start of that is to make sure that all of our departments are up on their maintenance plans and their regular servicing of equipment so that they can get indicators before the time it --

TREASURER KOPP: Right.

MR. CHURCHILL: -- turns into an emergency to move forward with a plan for facilities renewal.

TREASURER KOPP: Great idea but how do we see that that's done?

MR. CHURCHILL: Well at this point, you know, we're working together collaboratively, each of our facilities departments, in basically a work group to understand that. And so as soon as we have more information about what other departments are doing, we're going to put together, you know, what the best practices are that each of our departments can utilize moving forward.

TREASURER KOPP: Mr. Secretary, Governor, could I suggest all you have to do is read the last few years, probably the last decade, but just take the last few years of the Board of Public Works Agendas and you will find every time, or every other time, an example of something like this with people, the best intentioned people in the world. Nobody wants a problem like this, or unnecessary costs like this. But somehow the system isn't working. And I pick on you because you sit there and I know you're concerned about it. But it's every other department, whether it's in capital planning or what, that there's got to be a system to avoid these repeated --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: There's no question that the deferred maintenance over the last 20 or 30 years is now coming home to roost.

TREASURER KOPP: Right.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: And we're doing everything we can --

TREASURER KOPP: And it's costing us.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- to start fixing these problems that should have been fixed ten or 20 years ago but it's very expensive and we can't do it over night.

TREASURER KOPP: Well it goes back before 20 years. I mean, it's always been like --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: The State House complex is a perfect example.

TREASURER KOPP: Yes.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: The entire system has to be, we have to tear up Lawyers Mall. It's going to be, the whole place is going to be a mess for two years because for 50 years nobody did anything about the steam plant, or 100 years. So we're fixing it.

TREASURER KOPP: So I'm convinced, Governor, that the Secretary has got a handle on this and he --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: I think he does.

TREASURER KOPP: -- and he has plans in mind. The question then is how to bring everybody else --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yeah.

TREASURER KOPP: -- into it?

GOVERNOR HOGAN: It's a good plan.

TREASURER KOPP: Plus there's the pest and rodent problem.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well once we get the report done we'll cover this at a cabinet meeting for all the people that do their own individual facilities maintenance. Thank you. Any other questions on the Secretary's Agenda? Is there a motion?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval.

TREASURER KOPP: Second.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Second? Three-nothing. Now we'll move on to the DNR Real Property Agenda. Secretary Belton?

MR. BELTON: Good morning, Governor, Mr. Comptroller, Madam Treasurer. For the record, my name is Mark Belton. I'm the Secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. We have 15 items on our Agenda this morning. Item 15 is a hand-carry. Including our Rural Legacy

Program awardees, who will take a minute or two to cycle into the room because there's a lot of them.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yeah, well, thank you. First of all, while we're waiting for some of those folks to come in the room, Secretary Belton, I just want to thank you. We talked about Secretary Grumbles and his work and the folks at Agriculture. But I just want to single out DNR's incredible job that you've done assisting people all over the State in removing this debris from marinas and navigable waterways. And it was a yeoman's task and we never expected to have that kind of a problem. But I think it was great cooperation between the State agencies and all of our local governments. And I just want to thank you and please pass on my congratulations to your team for the work that they were doing in clearing out the Bay.

MR. BELTON: Thank you, sir.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: And you got that Steelers football out of the Annapolis Harbor?

(Laughter.)

MR. BELTON: And the Pennsylvania Wildlife Management sign, too. That's right.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Oh, I didn't see that one. A Pennsylvania Wildlife Management sign?

MR. BELTON: Yes, sir.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well while we're waiting for the rest of the people to fill in, we're stalling for time, there was, the whole Annapolis Harbor filled, you know, Ego Alley was filled with stumps and trees and trash. And they took photos of all this. And there's a Pittsburgh Steelers football floating on the top. So we made sure we put that picture up and we posted it on Facebook the day that I was hammering the Pennsylvania folks about their trash coming into our Bay. And I think it had an impression. But we posted it up just to try to convince Pennsylvania that it was their stuff.

(Laughter.)

GOVERNOR HOGAN: But we got a bigger reaction than that because hundreds of Ravens fans were outraged --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Yeah.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- they said get that trash out of our harbor.

(Laughter.)

GOVERNOR HOGAN: So it was cleaning up the Bay and it was a good way to get back at the Pittsburgh Steelers. Thank you.

But you know, we have, did you go through your whole Agenda already? What you have? Did you want to go through the number of items, and did you say that?

MR. BELTON: I did, sir, yes.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Okay. So I know we have a lot of folks here with us today for the Rural Legacy grant awards. And I want to say, you know, this is the first time in I think more than a decade that we have fully funded Program Open Space, we've increased and enhanced the Rural Legacy program. And you know, this is a very important program to preserve large tracts of valuable open space, protecting vital agriculture, natural and cultural resources that they provide. And so today we're awarding 16 Rural Legacy Program grants totaling $25 million, and we'd like to have all of our awardees come up with you, Mr. Secretary, and with us to take a picture. And we want to congratulate every single one of you for all that you do to protect and preserve our State's natural resources. Let's give them all a big round of applause.

(Applause.)

GOVERNOR HOGAN: All right. Thank you so much.

(Applause.)

TREASURER KOPP: Wow. That's great.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you. I want to thank them all again for being here, for the great work they are doing in land preservation. Are there any other questions on the DNR --

MR. BELTON: Governor, could I just add one point?

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Absolutely.

MR. BELTON: On Rural Legacy, the double picture I think is indicative of how successful this program has become.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: We've doubled the program.

MR. BELTON: Yes, sir. And if I could just point out that this particular day is a real milestone day for Rural Legacy. Because not only through Program Open Space formula and your initiative to fully fund that are we able to provide more than $25 million for the program this year. That's the largest amount since 2007. We're also expanding five existing Rural Legacy areas and creating a brand new one, which you are aware of, the Harriet Tubman Rural Legacy Area in Dorchester County. So it's a real exciting day for the program.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well thank you for your leadership. I appreciate it. Your department is doing a great job and I want to thank all of the participants.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Is there a second?

TREASURER KOPP: Second.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: I'll say aye. The ayes have it.

SECRETARY MCDONALD: Thank you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: The ayes appear to have it, three to nothing. We're going to move on to the DBM Agenda. Secretary Brinkley?

MR. BRINKLEY: Good morning, Governor, Mr. Comptroller, Madam Treasurer. The department has submitted six items for your consideration. Item 6-S is supplemental. For the record, I'm David Brinkley, the Secretary of the Department of Budget and Management. And we have people here to address any questions or concerns that you may have.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: I'd like to talk about Item 6, please.

MR. BRINKLEY: On Item 6, Dr. Salmon --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Dr. Salmon?

MR. BRINKLEY: -- and Steve Brooks, the Senior Financial Advisor.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Good morning again, Dr. Salmon.

DR. SALMON: Good morning, Governor, good morning, Treasurer, good morning --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Sorry we couldn't do both of yours together, but you're on two different agendas there.

DR. SALMON: That's all right. It's a pleasure to see all of the things that are happening across the State.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yeah.

DR. SALMON: And it's good to take stock of it.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well thank you very much. I understand this is the companion contract to what we talked about last time. And I'm pleased that this is for the final PARCC assessment that will ever be administered in the State of Maryland.

DR. SALMON: Yes, sir.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: And I know that back in March you told us that this was going to be needed as part of the bridge contract to get us to the new Maryland Comprehensive Assessment Program. And the one thing this Board has raised serious concerns about since I've been here is single bid contracts. And last time you were here before us I know the Comptroller raised some serious concerns --

DR. SALMON: Yes.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- and many of which I share. However, I also understand that if we do not have the assessment in place that you will not be able to satisfy your ESSA plan requirements and we certainly cannot be in a position where we could jeopardize $310 million in federal funds for our school systems. The Legislature failed to pass the Protect Our Students Act of 2018. Last year instead they passed what I referred to as the Protect Our Failing Schools Act, which made Maryland the second least accountable school system in America. And I agree with Brit Kirwan, who chaired the Commission on Innovation and Excellence in Education, who recently said that our school system needs real accountability with teeth. And we talked about this earlier.

We're going to continue to push for more accountability in the school systems. Clearly, I know that you have to have these assessments in place to ensure accountability for the students and that everybody is performing the way they are supposed to. But I don't think I have to tell you, Dr. Salmon, that nearly everyone in Maryland, parents, teachers, students, and the Governor, want these tests to end. And they are not happy that we are continuing with these PARCC tests. So it's frustrating that we haven't been able to get rid of them yet when nearly everybody else in the country has. But again, in spite of my serious reservations I am going to reluctantly vote yes on this proposal. Because we can't afford to lose the federal funding. But I just want reassurance from you, to the Board, that this new Maryland Comprehensive Assessment Program will be up and running by the time that this contract expires and that we won't have to be talking about extensions of our contracts every again. Is that --

DR. SALMON: Absolutely, Governor. And I'm reminiscing today about being in this room a number of years ago when I was Superintendent in Talbot County. The Comptroller loves to tell stories and I do, too. So we share that affinity.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: We'd love to hear your story because we've heard enough of his.

DR. SALMON: Okay.

DR. SALMON: So my story is I was here with the previous administration. We won't mention any names. But we were talking about school construction and funding in Talbot County. And we were asking for money for the St. Michael's High School campus, which was well overdue. I mean, the place was falling down, literally, around the feet of our children, my own included. And I said to the administration and to the Governor, I said, "I promise you we will not be back to ask you for more money for public schools in Talbot County." And I upheld that promise.

So I'm here today, again, in this same room, to promise you that we are moving on to our Maryland Assessment. We're very excited. We have hired, she's here today. Dr. Judkins, will you stand up and be recognized? We have hired a wonderful psychometrician guru and assessment for our new, she's our new Assistant State Superintendent for Assessment and Accountability --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Welcome.

DR. SALMON: -- from California who worked with Smarter Balanced. And she has been tasked from day one to developing a Maryland computer adapted assessment. And we're on, we are on the way to do that. We hope to be back with you in October to talk to you about who is going to be awarded the grants for the Maryland Assessment and how Maryland teachers are going to be involved in developing that assessment. And we look forward to meeting the timelines, which are rigorous, but we are working very, very hard to make sure we're in line for the 2018-'19 school year. So --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well thank you very much.

DR. SALMON: I mean, sorry, '19-'20 school year.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yeah. Well thank you very much. And thank you for your great leadership at the school system. And you know, you mentioned you were here to talk about opening a new St. Michael's school. I was thrilled to be up in Allegany County a few days ago --

DR. SALMON: I know you were. I saw the pictures, Governor.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- to open, you know, that was the oldest school in the entire State.

DR. SALMON: It was.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Ninety-three years old and we finally opened a new Allegany High. And this week we're opening five new schools in Baltimore City with the 21st Century Schools Program. And so it's --

DR. SALMON: Yes, it's very exciting.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- very exciting. I think we're at 124 new schools --

DR. SALMON: That's correct.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- in three and a half years. That's not bad. And I want to thank you for your leadership.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: And we just wanted to, I just wanted to again make sure.

DR. SALMON: I appreciate that.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Because I can tell you, I hear about this issue --

DR. SALMON: I know you do. I know --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- over and over again no matter where I go. Everybody just despises these tests.

DR. SALMON: And I want to tell you that your talking points were probably just much better than mine. So thank you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well I didn't, you know, I don't want it to seem like we're beating you up today by calling you up twice and asking tough questions. I really think --

DR. SALMON: You know I can take it.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- I think you're doing an amazing job and I want to thank you for your leadership.

DR. SALMON: Thank you, Governor.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: I agree with the Governor also that you're doing a terrific job. I'm going to vote no on this because it's $11.7

million. Today happens to be the day that a lot of systems are getting their teachers to come back even though the kids don't come until school after Labor Day, which is extremely popular. But my message to those teachers is that we have made a huge mistake with this program. We wasted $191 million over the last few years with this company that barely performed. We had, used to have a huge number of states. Now all we have is, oh, well let's see, states that I really like to see Maryland associated with. Illinois, New Jersey -- well, I don't mind D.C. They are my neighbor. New Mexico, and Maryland. That's it. That's the group. And as the Governor mentioned, D.C., we're piggybacking on their bid. They only received a single bid. So that's another reason to vote against this contract.

This will be the 15th single bid contract for this year, putting us on pace for 21 throughout total single bid contracts throughout 2018. I emphasize this is a huge drop from 82 single bid contracts approved in 2013 and 64 single bid contracts approved in 2014. So I applaud the administration and the Treasurer and others that understand that single bid contracts tend to be vendor incumbent protection programs, not real competitive. Not obviously something that benefits the taxpayers.

So I have two reasons to vote against this but the primary reason is that we have year after year after year yielded to this supposed threat from the federal government, which I believe is non-existent since it has never been implemented, that somehow there would be a problem if we took a sabbatical from the PARCC and other onerous tests. Teachers hate them. Kids hate them. Families hate them. They have nothing to do with accountability. They haven't improved our school systems at all, period. If anything, they have created these corruption problems that exist around in our different systems, where people are just kind of, move through the shadows and get their degrees.

So I think there are plenty of areas in public education where we could have spent $191 million rather than this ineffective assessment that the majority of states across the nation have already abandoned. But unless the Treasurer is having a weak moment and wants to join me, I guess I'm going to lose once again. But my message to the teachers coming back today is very clear. Help is on the way and I appreciate the new person coming on.

This is a fetish which we have in Maryland with testing. It's wrong. It needs to be trimmed back to the bare essentials. So please, keep that in mind as you move forward. Because I know you want accountability. We all want accountability. But we don't need this situation that we've gotten into with testing that it turns our whole curriculum upside down.

So thank you for letting me say that, Dr. Salmon. I couldn't agree with the Governor more. I think you are doing a fabulous job and I understand completely what the Governor says about the pressure that you're under. I just happen to disagree.

TREASURER KOPP: Governor --

TREASURER KOPP: Yes, could I just ask Dr. Salmon one question?

DR. SALMON: Certainly.

TREASURER KOPP: I mean, you know where I am on this.

DR. SALMON: Yes, Treasurer.

TREASURER KOPP: You are developing the Maryland test and the development includes not only the metrics but the substance, which will be a product not only of your office but who else is working on it?

DR. SALMON: Well --

TREASURER KOPP: Parents? Teachers?

DR. SALMON: Well, yes, we will certainly have, you know, field tested items and released items for people to respond to along the development process. But whoever we bring back, whomever we bring back to you in October will be the people that are actually constructing the items from our bank of items.

TREASURER KOPP: And they will be geared specifically to the Maryland --

DR. SALMON: Maryland.

TREASURER KOPP: -- goals?

DR. SALMON: Absolutely. Yes. They will be based on the Maryland College and Career Standards. Nothing about that changes. We are still moving forward in that rigorous way so that we can ensure that all of our students are ready for post-secondary education.

TREASURER KOPP: Exactly.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yes.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Why don't you bring the test to us and give it to us before you give it to the kids?

DR. SALMON: I will think about giving you a sample test.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Seriously.

DR. SALMON: That's a very good idea.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: That's a good idea.

DR. SALMON: I actually, I have another quick story if I may. I did that with the Eastern Shore delegation when I was President of the Superintendents Association on the Eastern Shore. And I gave them a sample high school assessment test and told them that waiting in the wings were the media for the scores. And for a minute, you should have seen their faces. And I said, no, just kidding.

(Laughter.)

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Some of them --

DR. SALMON: But so, but I have to tell you, Comptroller, it was probably the most informative meeting we had with legislators, was to have them look at what the students were expected to know. So it's a great idea.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well it's very encouraging to hear that you're going to kind of start from scratch and make it Maryland based. Because the last thing we want is a PARCC-lite with a Maryland flag stuck on the front cover.

DR. SALMON: And you, and I have, that's, I got it. I remember from March 28th --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yeah.

DR. SALMON: -- you said that, sir.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well thank you very much. So we're going to pull this out for a separate vote.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval on the rest. But -

TREASURER KOPP: Second.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: There's a motion to move approval on the rest of the Agenda.

DR. SALMON: Okay.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Is that, is that seconded? Three to nothing. And now we'll --

SECRETARY MCDONALD: A motion on Item 6-S.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: I'll motion to approve --

TREASURER KOPP: Second.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- this item. Is there a second?

TREASURER KOPP: Second.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: So the vote is two to one.

SECRETARY MCDONALD: Thank you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Mr. Comptroller, thank you. And now we're going to move on to the University System Agenda.

MR. EVANS: Good morning. Joe Evans, representing the University System of Maryland. We have four items on the Agenda. We are withdrawing Item 4-C-BP.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you, Mr. Evans. Any questions on the University System? Mr. Comptroller?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Yes. Item 1.

MR. EVANS: Which --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Item 1 is a $737,000 request to build a glass wall for a lab in the new A. James Clark Hall, University of Maryland College Park. I wanted to take just a minute to ask about the apparent legal settlement that's been reached with former Maryland football strength and conditioning coach Rick Court.

Like all Marylanders, I was appalled and angered to read the ESPN exposé a few weeks ago that revealed the existence of a culture in the football program that seemed to focus more on winning games and titles than the well-being of the students. This careless disregard of the coaches and other University employees and administrators who had knowledge of this culture of negligence is a stain on the reputation of the University community, to the State of Maryland, and to college sports. It's my hope that the Board of Regents' investigation and that of external investigators that have been hired will provide answers to the many serious questions and allegations that have been made about the football program and its executive staff. While the University of Maryland has refused to publicly confirm the existence of the financial settlement to the tune of $315,000, according to several media reports that led to the resignation of Coach Court, it is my sincere hope that the University intends on bringing the settlement, should there be one, before this Board for review and scrutiny. As the State's principal fiscal officers, this Board should have the opportunity to review the terms of the financial settlement and have our questions answered. So with that, let me just pivot back, Mr. Evans, and ask you why is the University spending on this item $737,000 on a glass wall?

MR. EVANS: I'd like to bring up Bill Olen, who is the Executive Director for Design and Construction at University of Maryland College Park.

MR. OLEN: Thanks, Joe. Good morning, Governor --

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Good morning.

MR. OLEN: -- Treasurer, Comptroller Franchot. Bill Olen, Executive Director of College Park Service Center. Your question about Item 1, it is not just for one lab. It's the length of the building. After we constructed Clark Hall the ground floor is an open makerspace forum. There's been about 20 stations built for the students to work, undergrads and graduate students to work on different types of projects, from mock up UAVs to bioengineering design projects. And there's a security issue. Since those 20 stations are the length of the building, a two-story space, just beautiful sort of studio space, the concern was to have it secured so folks couldn't go in there overnight and disrupt, disturb those projects. Because the projects will last the length of the semester, maybe even beyond that depending on whether it's an undergraduate or graduate student class. So the intent was, we talked about this during the construction, we waited until after. We didn't want to disrupt the construction of the building to look at this.

The reason it's a glass wall is there's interest in having folks be able to look into these labs so the students, the grad students, and faculty will be able to get in there. They can see what they are building, whether it's perspective students or folks, leaders from the commercial community, able to see what we're doing in the building. So it's a glass wall on the outside. The exterior of the building faces this space and then allow folks to walk by and look and interact without touching what's in the lab. So that's, that's the purpose of this wall.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Okay. And I'm sure it's specialized glass. But you understand my concern, which is that's about 69 in-state graduate students' tuition, $737,000, that we could be spending on those scholarships but instead we're spending it on a glass wall. Which I understand is largely for security, you know, I can understand that. But I don't quite get the year-round use of the 20 cubicles by the same people.

MR. OLEN: Still, there are, we did not spend all of the budgeted amount in the project. This would have been part of the project. We just weren't finished with the details when Clark Construction finished the project last year.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Okay.

MR. OLEN: So we could have had it inside. At one point we were talking about having Clark do it. But we waited to look at different options. The most cost effective option to provide this space, to allow folks to look in, to interact with it without touching.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Got it. Okay. And Mr. Evans, if you could just at some point maybe get back to the Board, or maybe the Board has other views than I do. But I hope this settlement with the conditioning coach comes before us.

MR. EVANS: When I go back I will pass that on.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you very much. Is there a motion?

TREASURER KOPP: Do you want to bring back Item 4?

MR. EVANS: No, ma'am. Not at this time.

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: What's that? What?

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Is there a motion on the University System?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Second? Three-nothing on that. We're going to move on to Information Technology.

MR. LEAHY: Good morning, Governor, Madam Treasurer, Mr. Comptroller. For the record, I'm Michael Leahy, Secretary of the Department of Information Technology. Today we have six items on the Agenda and there are representatives from various agencies to answer any questions you might have.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Any questions on Information Technology?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: So I just want to bring to the -- thank you, Mr. Secretary, for putting on this the Annapolis data center's disaster recovery services. And we're asking for a one-year extension. My agency runs the data center for all of the other agencies of the State and I really appreciate the work of the IT oversight and supervisors.

But I do want to give a shout out to Don Coffey (phonetic), who is one of the many public servants in the Comptroller's Office that is committed to delivering respectful, responsive, and results oriented service. And he is associated with the IT program. On occasion I go on my agency's Facebook page and read comments from taxpayers. And Don received high praise from a taxpayer who messaged our Facebook page with an issue which Donald was able to resolve to the taxpayer's satisfaction within an hour. And the taxpayer started out very angry and ended up very pleased with the work that Don Coffey did. So thanks to all the wonderful employees of the Comptroller's Office and the data center, and thank you, Secretary, for extending this contract for us.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you very much. Any other questions? Is there a motion?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Second? Three-nothing. We'll move on to the Department of Transportation.

MR. RAHN: Good morning, Governor, Madam Treasurer, Mr. Comptroller. For the record, my name is Pete Rahn, Secretary of the Maryland Department of Transportation. MDOT has nine items before the Board today.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Any questions on Transportation? Is there a motion?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Second? Three-nothing. We move on to the Department of General Services. Secretary Churchill?

MR. CHURCHILL: Well good morning, Governor, Madam Treasurer, and Mr. Comptroller. For the record, I am Ellington Churchill, Secretary for the Department of General Services. The department has 34 items on our Agenda, including one supplemental. We are withdrawing Items 7, 31, 32, and 33. We have representation here to answer any questions that you may have.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Okay. Thank you. I think we have Delegate Anderton here who wants to speak on Item 27. Delegate, good morning. Welcome.

DELEGATE ANDERTON: Good morning, or afternoon.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: I'm not sure. We've been here a while. I don't have a watch on. What is it?

DELEGATE ANDERTON: It's --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: It's 11:15.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yeah, it's still morning. Come on. On the Eastern Shore maybe it's --

DELEGATE ANDERTON: Always afternoon, you know that. Madam Treasurer, Mr. Comptroller, Mr. Governor, I just wanted to come by and just thank you for always looking out for us on the Lower Shore, especially Salisbury. We've come a long way in four years. And, you know, just really excited. I've seen, you know, with Open Space being fully funded. That's great. You know, and a lot of things I've learned today just sitting in the back here, you know. We're moving in the right direction. I think it's very awesome. And so I just want to thank you for your support. And I look forward to taking some time that I have to spend with the Budget Secretary to work on the next opportunity for me to stand in front of you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: And I hope you didn't take it personally when Dr. Salmon talked about giving the high school test to the delegation. I just, I said some of the folks on the Eastern Shore delegation might have a hard time. I didn't mention you by name but --

DELEGATE ANDERTON: No, no, no. Very smart. I would have got about a 48 percent. So you know. And you know, obviously the situation with the Conowingo, with the football making its way from Pittsburgh. I'm glad that we sent it back with the other garbage.

(Laughter.)

DELEGATE ANDERTON: So that's always good. Go Ravens. But anyway, I just wanted to just come by and say thank you so much.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Thank you, Delegate. Thank you very much.

DELEGATE ANDERTON: Absolutely.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: I appreciate you being here.

DELEGATE ANDERTON: Thank you.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: And is there a motion on --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Yeah. I would just like to echo Delegate Anderton's comment about the Lower Shore and your support for it, Governor. Particularly like the $1 million grant to Salisbury to make long overdue improvements and enhancements to Salisbury's Main Street streetscapes. The delegate was a former mayor but the, of a town in that area. But Mayor Jake Day at Salisbury is doing an incredible job leading the great City of Salisbury. I'm looking forward to attending the National Folk Festival in a couple of weeks there and maybe I can, you know, get up on stage or something. I'm not sure.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Well I'm the Co-Chairman --

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: You are?

GOVERNOR HOGAN: -- and if you're nice to me I'll invite you up on stage with me.

(Laughter.)

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: So it's a big deal down there. There are going to be a lot of people coming from out of state. I know it would not have happened without the visionary leadership of Jake Day and his team. And I just wanted to recognize him along with the Delegate for a lot of hard work and leadership for that festival. Thank you, Governor.

GOVERNOR HOGAN: Yes, thank you very much. So there's a motion?

COMPTROLLER FRANCHOT: Move approval.

That concludes that Board of Public Works. Thank you all for joining us.

(Whereupon, at 11:20 a.m., the meeting was concluded.)
